

9 honeymoon destinations you'll start seeing a lot more

Kelli Acciaro

February 20, 2020 Leave a comment

St. Barth's

According to Doug Knight, managing partner at World Tek Travel and Event Management, the island has made a big comeback from Hurricane Irma in the fall of 2017 and is ready to welcome honeymooners in classic Saint Barthelemy fashion once again. "The Oetker Collection property Eden Rock – St Barths has finally reopened after an extensive two-year renovation and boasts a private beach bordering St. Barth mainstay Nikki Beach and the celebrity-splashed St-Jean Beach." There's also unparalleled culinary creations by master chef Jean-Georges in the Sand Bar restaurant, bespoke cocktails made for sunset sips at Rémy Bar and custom treatments for two at the new Eden Spa. Pro tip: The best time to go is... anytime! But Knight suggests avoiding August through October, since everyone is gone and there's the threat of storms and hurricanes to contend with. Le Barthélemy Hotel & Spa and Hotel le Toiny offer a quieter, more romantic scene for an intimate getaway.